Ruling Within Week on Mall

An opinion on the legal status of the Granite City Downtown Mall project will be given this week, clearing the way for a petition for circuit court approval of the project, it was reported today.

The opinion, covering the legality of procedures followed in development of the mall project, is being prepared by Charles & Trauerlich, St. Louis, recognized authorities on municipal procedure and bond matters.

John Gaebe, a representative of the law firm, said the opinion will be completed within a few days and will be delivered within the next week to William Brandt, Granite City attorney representing the Local Board of Improvements.

The mall construction, estimated to cost $250,000, will be financed with special assessment bonds which will be retired by special assessments charged against the owners of property within or adjacent to the mall area.

Appraisal Required

Mayor Donald Partney said that as soon as the legal opinion is received, the Board of Local Improvements will retain an appraiser to determine property values within the mall area as a basis for determining the assessment charges. The assessments will be established on a front-foot basis.

A petition to the circuit court for approval of the project and financing procedures will be filed by Brandt after appraisal work is completed. Partney said details of assessment charges must be contained in the petition and must receive court approval before work on the project can begin.

"We intend to move along on the mall project as rapidly as possible after we hear from Charles & Trauerlich," the mayor said.

The Board of Local Improvements, which is the administering agency for the project, includes the mayor, Street Superintendent Lionel Portell, Public Engineer Edward Juneau and Aldermen Frank Greenwald and Walter Nomm.

Plans for the development of the "downtown wedge" are being completed by Harland Bartholomew & Associates, St. Louis planning engineers.

The mall project was initiated early in 1969 by representatives of the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce, downtown merchants and the city.

The friends searched for him and then called the county sheriff's department. The body was brought to the scene and searched 35 minutes before locating his body in seven feet of water.

He was pronounced dead upon arrival at a Belton Hospital. Pfc. Zilliken was born in St. Louis and came to Granite City with his family 15 years ago. He attended local schools and Granite City High School through 1971 when he enlisted in the Army. He underwent Simon's Future—Congress, U. S. Senate or Governor's Mansion?

By KEN WATSON

Springfield—Is it farewell to politics for Paul Simon?

The feeling beneath the Statehouse Dome is that sooner or later the lieutenant governor will be a candidate again and probably for either governor or U. S. senator.

There are many reasons cited for this belief. The first is Simon's age. Even after almost 20 years in the Illinois legislative and political arena, he is only 43 years old—and this is considered young for a politician.

Second is the fact that even in his primary loss to maverick "Drover" Walker in the Democratic gubernatorial primary, Simon suffered little direct political erosion from a personal standpoint.

His defeat by about 50,000 votes has been termed a major upset in Illinois political history.

Also, it is reasoned, Walker votes were not anti-Simon votes but votes against Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and his fading political machine, a protest against taxes, a slap at the so-called "establishment" and an expression of general discontent with things as they are.

Simon's unfortunate raising of the income tax issue triggered the blast against him. But from a long-range standpoint, his frankness on the tax issue may prove a big political advantage.

Not only is Simon certain to be remembered for his political honesty, but many versed in the workings of state government are certain that before very long he is going to be proven right.

The manner in which he has accepted defeat has won him more points. Simon, meanwhile, keeps close to the political scene both physically and symbolically. This fall, he begins a teaching career at Sangamon State University in this capital city.

His personal prestige will receive an added boost the following semester when he will be a guest lecturer at Harvard University. His field, of course, is politics and this will provide him an opportunity to occasionally catch the public eye.

Simon's big problem, providing he is bent on a political comeback, is a lack of openings.

The governor's office will be (Continued on Page 7, Col. 8)

Isotope Scan Process Here

The growing application of nuclear medicine is now being provided at St. Elizabeth Hospital with the opening of the new Doctor's Wing, it was announced today.

The nuclear medicine department, located in the X-ray Department complex, offers the full scope of isotope examination, such as brain scans, lung scans, liver scans, bone scans and thyroid scans.

The examinations are conducted under the supervision of a radiologist with the help of a nuclear medicine technologist. They obtain the correct dosage of isotope by a computer-type machine that calculates the amount of radioactive medicine to be administered to the patient.

The patient then lies on a couch and the scanning device picks up the radiation impulses and transmits them to a writing arm, which in turn prints out an image of the desired organ.

The radiation dose is greatly reduced by the application of isotope medicine in comparison to routine x-ray examination.

Use of nuclear medicine produces no ill effects for the patient, due to the short half-life of the isotope used. "This has created one more sophisticated diagnostic aid for the attending physician," a hospital spokesman told the Press-Record.

Future innovations call for scanning equipment to be tied into computers that will store and evaluate information from the radiation impulses.

Such scan data will not only be more precise, but could be played back by radiologists in a number of variations to produce an image that yields the desired information, it was explained.

"Still a pioneer field, nuclear medicine holds great promise," the spokesman concluded.

Regional Goals Review Tonight

Representatives of Quad-City governmental bodies have been invited to attend a metropolitan goals hearing to be held tonight by the Regional Forum of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council in the Venice Park District building, 320 Broadway, Venice.

The hearing also is open to the public and citizens have been urged to attend to express their views in six different categories of regional goals.

The session will open at 8 p.m. George Wendel, chairman of the Regional Forum, said it has been charged by the Gateway Council with the responsibility of updating regional goals previously adopted by the council.

"The Forum is aware that realistic policies for the implementation of metropolitan goals also must be developed," Wendel said.

Those persons most immediately affected by these policies—citizens of the region—must be involved in the formation of goals and policies if they are to be an effective tool for regional development," he added.

Wendel noted that "this activity is to develop regional or metropolitan goals and policies. Therefore, we respectfully request that individuals wishing to participate limit their comments to matters which are not of a purely local nature."

Six Major Goals
Categories and existing goals scheduled for consideration tonight's hearing, include:

Physical Environment and Natural Resources: a healthful and attractive environment for all residents.

Justice: An effective coordinated regional justice system which provides equitable treatment under the law, significantly decreases the region's crime rate and improves relations and understanding between citizens and law enforcement officials.

Transportation: a balanced multi-mode, multi-purpose, regional transportation system which provides for the safe, economical and efficient movement of people and goods.

Employment and Economic Development: an adequate economic level for all residents. Government provision of local and state public services and facilities of adequate standards and equal availability to all residents in all areas of the region.

Human Resources and Social Welfare: a quality of life which enables every citizen, regardless of race, creed, religion or sex, to live in dignity, realize his greatest potential and make his contributions to the social, economic and cultural growth and strength of the region.

Girl, 4, Hit by Car

Donna Wagner, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner, 2204 Grand Ave., suffered pains after she ran from behind a parked car into the path of an auto driven by Maurice H. White, 4140 Division St., at 11:35 a.m. Wednesday at 2160 Grand. She was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital for x-rays and was admitted for observation. She had a hematoma to the left hip.

Demos to Name Candidate to Succeed Burke

A convention of the Madison County Democratic Central Committee will be called soon to select a Democratic nominee for corner subject to the Nov. 7 general election. Walter T. "Buck" Simmons, Democratic county chairman, announced today.

Simmons said a Democratic candidate for corner must be chosen by committee appointment to run in the place of Thomas J. Burke Jr. of Alton, who died this week. Burke, an Alton funeral director, was nominated as candidate for corner without opposition in the March primary election.

Burke died of a heart ailment following an attack suffered while he was preparing to direct a funeral May 22. Funeral services were to be held in Alton today.

Simmons said an appointment to fill a candidate vacancy must be made by the membership of the county committee as a whole, and that a county convention will be arranged as soon as statutory provisions for the session are checked.

Under the law, such a county convention must be held prior to Sept. 2, Simmons said.

Identification of Household Articles May Reduce Thefts

Operation Identification will begin Saturday in Madison, according to Chief of Police Frank Dutko.

The program is designed to discourage theft and burglary, and is accomplished by engraving a person's driver's license number on portable items such as TV sets, binoculars, cameras, bicycles, tools, radios, appliances, guns, tape players and musical instruments. The driver's license number is used because it readily can be traced by any law enforcement agency.

A decal will be issued to participating homes to be placed on or near all points of entrance to the home or business. These decals carry the warning to any would-be intruder that all valuable possessions have been marked and can be identified.

Residents of the city of Madison wishing to have valuables marked in a y call Madison Police at 876-4306, leaving their name and address. On Saturday, members of Explorer Post 10-4 will call at the home, mark the items and leave the decals.

"We are starting this program here in Madison for the protection of our residents," Dutko said.

American Steel Workers Set Record in Safety

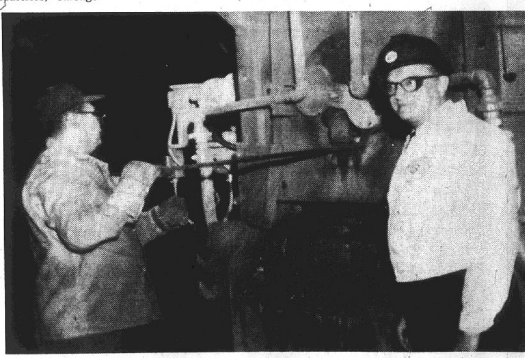

The Granite City plant of 4,569, a figure considerably lower than the average for the steel industry, has completed 1 million man hours worked without a lost time accident, covering a period of 251 days dating back to August 26, 1971.

The previous longest lost-time accident-free period was 763,827 man hours which was attained in 1965.

A. P. Steinhauer, works manager, acknowledged that the achievement is the result of full cooperation between the union, the employees and the management.

To commemorate this achievement, all employees working at the plant will receive a yellow nylon jacket imprinted with the American Steel Foundries emblem, an octagon "G", and designated as a safety award for 1972.

The safety experience is continuing and as of May 30, a total of 1,128,285 man hours had been reached. The record follows an excellent plant safety experience in the company's most recently completed fiscal year which ended Sept. 30, 1971. That year resulted in a lost time accident frequency rate of

22 DAYS WITHOUT A QUAD-CITY TRAFFIC FATALITY

Conversion to Metric System Urged by Prof

Americans will find themselves with smaller paychecks and increasingly isolated from mainstreams of world trade unless they push for a changeover to the metric system of measurement, says George Arnold, associate professor at Southern Illinois University - Southwest.

Arnold, a member of the engineering faculty and a research associate with SIU's Regional and Urban Development Studies and Services, has been a metric crusader for nearly two decades. During that time, he said his frustration has abated as the importance of conversion has been recognized by some Americans, but his frustration at the lack of implementation has not decreased.

The United States is the only heavily industrialized country in the world still using the system of English measurement—feet, yards and miles; ounces and pounds; pints and quarts. More than 90% of the world's population lives in countries using the metric system, Arnold said.

Lesser Paychecks

"In the long run, our paychecks are likely to contain less if we think we can ignore the rest of the world," Arnold said. "Even now, the U.S. has disadvantages in world trade resulting from our failure to make the switch, and these disadvantages will grow worse. If we persist with our difficult measurement system, quantities of exports will diminish as other countries deal with us less and less."

Arnold is interested in conversion primarily as a scientist. As the former chief of technical services for the Air Conservation Commission of Mississippi, he knows the problems of what he calls "our mixed-up reporting of pollution in both British and metric units." He currently represents the 6,000-member Air Pollution Control Association on the metrication committee of the national Engineers Joint Council.

At the annual meeting of the Air Pollution Control Association this month, Arnold planned to introduce a resolution that the group adopt a policy favoring exclusive use of metric units for air pollution measurements and publications and urging a push for total conversion.

Basic Physics

Arnold also is interested in conversion in his role as an educator. He estimates that while teaching basic courses "I lost a substantial amount of time because I had to put things in terms of two systems of measurement."

"The metric system is easier to teach and its use in this country would simplify our educational program," he said. "The assertion has been made it could cut by 25% the time school children now spend learning to use fractions and to memorize the number of feet in a mile or the number of ounces in a pound."

Failure of the U.S. to switch to the metric system thus far is as much a historical oversight as it is reluctance, Arnold said. In 1866, the U.S. Congress approved an act legalizing the metric system, but not making it mandatory. In 1875, the country was one of the charter members of the International Metric Convention.

Arnold noted that only a push by industrial interests opposed to metric standards for an early adjournment to the first session of the 1902 U.S. Congress kept congressmen from approving a bill requiring all government departments to use metric measures exclusively.

Volumes to Library

Arnold said a recent study by the National Bureau of Standards resulted in publication of 12 volumes on adoption of the metric system by the U.S. Arnold has presented a copy of the volumes to the SIU-SW Lovejoy Library, where they are on file. The massive study by the Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans to recommend last year "that the U.S. change to the international metric system deliberately and carefully" within the next 10 years.

"Conversion would be relatively painless," Arnold said. "The British have nearly completed their 10-year conversion four years ahead of schedule."

The metric system, which progresses logically in units of 10 and has meters, grams and liters as its basic units, already is being used in many areas of American life, Arnold said. Swimming pools are constructed in metric lengths for international meets and other sports events, including Olympic events, are measured in meters. The photographic and drug industries are other examples.

Arnold said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration uses metric measure and many scientific journals have started using metric measurements in all articles.

"And of course any American who has a foreign car knows he'll need an additional set of wrenches," Arnold said. "We better learn the metric language instead of acting as if we have the only system in the world."

Correctional Facility for Girls Unnecessary, Now Used for Boys

Copley News Service
Springfield—There was considerable fanfare when Jubilee Lodge was opened near Brimfield, the "first" new correctional facility for girls in Illinois in 75 years, just a couple of years ago.

With considerably less fanfare, Jubilee Lodge was closed last September, because enough girls in the right age bracket, judged to be minimum security cases, weren't being committed by the Illinois Courts to the juvenile division of the State Department of Corrections.

Now, quietly, Jubilee Lodge has come full circle, and is a residence for young boys in trouble with the law.

Gone are the charm school, and the home economics program. Present instead are 11 young men, previously working out their time at the Fort Massac forestry camp operated by the department of corrections in Fort Massac State Park.

The 11 are only the first contingent of a final population expected to run about 40. The school was originally planned to house 36 female juvenile inmates, but boys seem to take up a little less room.

With the removal of the boys from Fort Massac to Jubilee Lodge, the forestry camp has been temporarily closed. Originally started as a Civilian Conservation Corps camp, it has barracks-type buildings which were never expected to last, or remain in service, for a fraction as long as they have.

Now, department planning calls for conversion of the site to an adult facility as part of the work release program, in conjunction with the Environmental Work Corps.

The conversion of the forestry camp from a facility for boys is part of an overall change in approach which has been going on in the corrections department for some time.

Many of the straight work facilities are being phased out, or altered so as to put increased emphasis on classroom work in conjunction with vocational and manual training programs.

Jubilee Lodge, named for the nearby Jubilee State Memorial Park, won a number of design awards when it was built.

Its design features, unusual at that time, included extensive use of courtyards, picture windows and units spaced on varying levels, to conform to the hillside.

Guitar Mass Played at Wedding in St. Louis

Miss Zoe Ann Kruszyński and Stephen Mance were united in marriage May 27 in a morning guitar Mass at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in St. Louis.

The Rev. Leo F. Sullivan officiated at the 11 a.m. double ring ceremony before an altar adorned with bouquets of white flowers and greenery.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Kruszyński, 1019 Veronica St., St. Louis and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Mance, 1422 Grand Ave.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown fashioned of pastel pink and white Leno lace over pale pink taffeta. The long sleeves, set in an Empire bodice, and high collar were edged in delicate lace and a white satin sash encircled the high rise waist.

A pastel pink peau de soie cap tucked under the chin, secured a floor length veil of pale pink silk illusion. She carried a white wicker basket filled with pink roses, white daisies, lily and baby breathing.

Mrs. Michael B. Marr, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Shelton B. Hillman Jr., of Knoxville, Tenn., another sister of the bride, Mrs. Thomas J. Hough and Miss Carolyn L. Hoffman, were bridesmaids.

Their formal length gowns of white Leno lace over white tulle taffeta were designed in Empire style, featuring long sleeves and a high collar trimmed in lace. A pink satin sash accented the waistline.

The young couple will make their home in Granite City.

Each attendant wore a white hairband hat and carried on her wrist a pink daisy and ivy covered ball, festooned with pink ribbons.

The bridegroom chose his brother, Anthony J. Mance, as best man. Mark E. Kruszyński, a brother of the bride, was groomsman and Bob J. Johnston and John A. Gallauer, a cousin of the groom, were ushers.

Guests were received by the newly married couple at a reception given immediately following the ceremony at Augustine's Restaurant in Belleville.

Mrs. Kruszyński wore a floor length gown of brown and white Italian silk designed in a shirtwaist effect. The groom's mother was attired in a mint green and white embroidered organza dress with sheer sleeves. Both wore matching accessories and held gardenia corsages.

The former Miss Kruszyński is a graduate of Notre Dame Webster Groves and attended Spaulding College in Louisville, Ky. She was graduated from Southern Illinois University, Southwestern Campus with a B.A. in psychology.

Mrs. Mance, a graduate of Granite City High School, attended the University of Illinois at Champaign and received a B.A. in psychology from SIU-SW, where he is presently attending graduate school.

The young couple will make their home in Granite City.

Coal Mine Engineer to Graduate as Teacher

When Jack L. Musgrave of Litchfield graduates from Southern Illinois University-Southwestern on June 10, he will be 53 years old. That is not an institutional record, but it is a victory for Musgrave over personal tragedy. It comes 15 years after he first enrolled at the then new Altos Residence Center.

Musgrave began his university education "for therapeutic reasons," he said. "I had lost a son, and I needed something to keep me busy, to keep my mind off his loss. I started going to school, and then it sort of fell into a pattern."

His studies were a part-time in the evenings after full work days as a hoisting engineer at a coal mine.

"We work seven days a week, except for the hottest time of the summer, when we work six days. That's about 330 days a year." Fortunately, he added, "the work I do is all above ground. I've never worked underground."

Musgrave's education was interrupted in 1963 when he suffered a heart attack. After that, he said, "I was just afraid to go to classes" for three and a half years. He did, however, resume his studies, and in June will graduate with honors, receiving his degree in secondary education. He did his student teaching in Litchfield at High School.

"Now," Musgrave said, "I would like to teach—at least I think I would—I haven't been disillusioned yet, and I really enjoyed the experience of practice teaching."

Musgrave's graduation is timely. The mine where he has worked for 22 years is closing, because "I'm too young to retire and too old to move," he hopes to find a position on a school faculty "within driving distance of my home. All my friends are here."

On hand to watch his graduate will be his wife, a surviving son, and a grandchild. "We're all looking forward to June 10th," he concluded.

Textbook Service to Extend Return Period

Textbook Service of Southern Illinois University-Southwestern will extend its operating hours June 3-10 for students who must return rented textbooks before the close of the spring academic quarter.

James Oglesby, head of the service, said noon June 10 is the last time a student may return a rented textbook without being assessed a penalty. The service will operate from 8 a.m. to noon June 3; from 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. June 5-8; from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. June 9; and from 8 a.m. to noon June 10.

The service is in Room 0005 of Lovejoy Library.

Funeral Services Held For Mrs. Berrie Krite

Funeral services were held in Collinsville at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday for Mrs. Berrie D. Krite, 92, of 824 Tilton St., Collinsville, stepmother of Mrs. Clem (Marie) Herr of Granite City.

Mrs. Krite died Monday in the Memorial Nursing Home, Belleville. Also surviving is a stepson and two other stepdaughters.

Travel Hints for Young Americans Offered by US

Each year, thousands of young Americans travel abroad for study, work or kicks. For most, it's great. But for an increasing number of travelers, it's a "bust."

To help young Americans avoid the problem of foreign travel, the U. S. State Department has just published a pamphlet which offers some helpful suggestions on planning a successful trip abroad.

The pamphlet, on sale by the U. S. Government Printing Office for 20 cents, provides useful information on passports and visas, travel in Eastern Europe, vaccination requirements, charter flights, study and work programs, and the role U. S. embassies and consulates play in protecting the interests of U. S. citizens overseas.

A handy pre-travel checklist and a bibliography of selected sources for further information also are provided.

Entitled "Youth Travel Abroad: What to Know Before You Go," the 8-page pamphlet is designed to help travelers, especially young Americans, avoid the "hassles" that can turn a trip abroad into a frightening experience.

Too many travelers get stranded abroad because they haven't thoroughly checked their travel, particularly charter flights, before leaving the country.

The State Department's pamphlet warns of this and such other problems as the strict enforcement of drug laws in foreign countries which has resulted in a large number of Americans jailed overseas, now more than 100, arrests for currency violations and the loss of money and time by students who are taken in by misleading "educational" study tours abroad.

The booklet won't answer all the questions, but it provides travelers with a good start in planning an overseas adventure. Even for Americans who have traveled abroad before, its checklist and general information, such as visas regulations for foreign countries, will be useful.

To obtain the pamphlet, send 20 cents (check or money order) to the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402. Ask for "Youth Travel Abroad: What to Know Before You Go," Department of State Publication 8636, Stock No. 440-1418. Be sure to identify the pamphlet by stock number when ordering copies.

Groups wishing to obtain copies of the booklet may address requests to Michael J. Howlett, 333 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Howlett Issues Book On Medal of Honor

To honor the memory of men who have won the nation's highest award for bravery, Michael J. Howlett, state auditor of Public Accounts, has begun distributing 50,000 copies of a booklet—"Medal of Honor—Illinois."

No state funds were used to print or distribute the booklet. Howlett sponsored the printing with his own money. Author of the work is Robert Higgins, of Glenview, a professional writer, a war veteran and Illinois state director of the Medal of Honor Historical Round Table.

So far, 11,000 of the copies have been sent to Illinois newspaper editors, clergymen, civic groups and officers of veterans and civic organizations. Demands for extra copies, in quantities, already are pouring in from throughout the state.

The booklet includes a brief history of the Medal of Honor, and a list of 163 Illinoisans, living and dead, who won it. Since the administration of President Abraham Lincoln, Medals of Honor have been awarded to members of the armed forces for outstanding deeds of gallantry beyond the call of duty.

Groups wishing to obtain copies of the booklet may address requests to Michael J. Howlett, 333 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

13-Yr. Locust Phenomena Of Interest to Scientist

A St. Louis University scientist is observing the sudden and dramatic appearance in Missouri and Illinois of a phenomenon that has been 13 years in the making.

Commonly known as the 13-year locust, the periodical cicada emerges about the last week of May and is very conspicuous because of its number and noise. After waiting 13 years in the ground the cicadas will complete their life cycle within four to five weeks. Adult cicadas have black bodies, red eyes and orange wings and are about 1 1/2 inches long.

Dr. Nevin Aspinwall, associate professor of biology at St. Louis University, has been studying the insects and conducting research on the factors which trigger their emergence. They are related to, but are not to be confused with, the annual common locust which is mottled green and appears late in the summer.

The crop of cicadas that will be abundant in this and other areas in the next few weeks will come from eggs that were laid and hatched in 1959 and have lived deep underground ever since.

Shed Nymphal Skins

The cicadas will push up from as deep as three feet. They will emerge, find and climb an upright object—preferably a tree — and shed their nymphal skins completing their adult transformation — all within a few hours.

In the trees they will mate and lay eggs in the first week to 10 days and die within four to five weeks. The adults will disappear by early July. Eggs left on the trees will hatch into nymphs which fall from the trees by mid-August and burrow into the ground where they will undergo periods of development until 1985.

Then they will emerge for their month above ground and begin a new brood to start another 13-year cycle.

At the time the new nymphs hatch and fall from the trees to burrow into the ground they are 1/16 inch long. By the seventh or eighth year underground they are fully grown but will continue to feed on root juice and develop until the 13th year.

It will not be 13 years, however, until periodical cicadas are seen in this area again. A brood which was hatched in 1963 will appear in 1976. Major broods do not appear every year. The periodical cicada is found only in the United States. In addition to the 13-year cicadas of the Southern states, there is a 17-year cicada which is found primarily in the Northern states.

known where the largest populations of cicadas will appear locally.

His own work has shown, for instance, that there will be large numbers of the insects in St. Charles County. He has found that the mounds that some cicadas build just prior to emerging are appearing now.

Damage Trees

The cicadas can cause damage to trees and Dr. Aspinwall said in areas where they are numerous, it is not advisable to plant young trees and shrubs until after July. The insects can be especially damaging to fruit trees.

The damage is not caused by feeding but by wounds made by the females who cut pockets in twigs and branches for their 400 to 600 eggs. Trees preferred by the females include elm, hickory, apple, peach, pear and grape.

Dr. Aspinwall will spend a good deal of time in the field in the next few weeks in Southern Missouri and Southern Illinois identifying cicada locations, mapping their habitats and collecting insects for further study.

EOC Family Program Approved by Gateway

Endorsement has been given by the board of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council to an application submitted by the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission for a family planning program.

The commission is requesting $11,000 in Federal Funds. The total program cost is estimated at $12,100 with local funds in the amount of $1,100 consisting of community in-kind contributions.

This request for funds will supplement an initial grant and is intended to cover three categorical areas of service to the patients: contraceptive supplies, exam consumables and staff training. The services will be distributed in Alton, Granite City, Highland, Edwardsville, and Collinsville.

The board noted that in order to provide efficient, quality family planning services in the Madison County area, these supplemental supplies and training will be needed.

Personal Property Tax Political Hot Potato

By RAY SERATTI
Copley News Service

Springfield — The personal property tax in the current General Assembly appears to be a political hot potato.

A few years ago everyone thought it would be done with dispatch. But everyone has gotten into the act, including the Illinois Supreme Court. Despite all of this hassle the members of the General Assembly are moving toward doing something about taxes in this session, if for no other reason than it is an election year.

If definite steps are not taken in the matter, the taxpayers will definitely take a dim view of the Legislature.

The House has already taken action on one property tax bill. It allows for a flat $7,500 exemption on the person's personal property tax assessment. This also includes cars and trucks. Now it will be up to the Senate to take some action on this matter.

Defuse Issue

Senate leaders appear to be trying to defuse the issue of any possible political implications. This appears to be a prudent move in some of the recent actions taken by Senate President Pro Tem Cecil A. Partee, D-Chicago, and Senate Majority Leader Terrell E. Clarke, R-Western Springs.

What Partee and Clarke have year-done is to allow the various legislative staffs to check over all of the proposals for personal property tax changes and see what can be hammered out with support on the floor.

By trying to get a plan to the floor which would have broad support, Partee and Clarke could stave off days of floor wrangling over the issue.

Right now most of the lawmakers are aiming for a mid-June adjournment and any additional fighting on the floor could prolong the session until the end of June.

No One Problem

Talk to any legislator from any section of the state and all are in agreement that something must be done on the personal property tax matter. In fact many of the Downstate legislators agree that it is the number one problem.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has been pushing for personal property tax changes. He has had his running mate, Rep. James Dunlap Nowlan, R-Toulon, introduce a bill seeking to bring personal property tax relief to the farmers. On this bill it is difficult to try to see if it will get through the General Assembly.

All in all the taxpayer will be watching just what their lawmakers do in this area, which appear to be the major overriding issue in this election year.

New Swimming Program In Operation at YMCA

The new national YMCA progressive swimming program is in progress in the local area, according to Ronald Ireland, aquatic director of the YMCA.

He said that the program was adopted at the recent national YMCA aquatic conference in Denver. Probably the most important change in the YMCA aquatic program is a new philosophical approach to teaching swimming, Ireland pointed out. Elements which are different include:

From part-whole method to whole-part method of instruction (teaching whole stroke instead of part of stroke); from teacher-centered activities to a pupil-centered emphasis; a change in importance from skill instruction and drills to problem solving; from a progressive testing program with emphasis on test to fewer tests which combine many skills.

In addition to the skill objective which was prevalent in the old program, additional objectives include endurance, personal safety and lifesaving.

To accomplish some of the philosophical changes, Ireland said, the following instructional changes will be implemented:

The use of flotation devices during the beginning instruction period; classes by age groups with skill breakdown within each class; use of the entire pool for swimming instruction, including beginners; increased emphasis and work for endurance and fitness, using kickboards and doing distance swimming.

The introduction of physical and mechanical principles as part of each lesson plan. Ireland added, levels of the progressive swim program have been changed slightly and will include the following steps:

Beginner (Polio), a new level; Advanced Beginner (Minnow); Intermediate (Fish); and Advanced Intermediate (Flying Fish); Swimmer (Shark); and Advanced Watermanship (Porpoise).

This summer's program will provide five sessions of two weeks each with the classes meeting for 10 lessons Monday through Friday of the two week periods. The dates of the sessions will be June 5-15; June 19-29; July 10-20; July 24-August 4; and August 7-18. Classes for each of the skill categories will be offered during each session.

Registration information and details on hours and fees can be obtained by calling the "Y" office, 870-7200. Ireland pointed out that the student need not enroll in the first session to be eligible for subsequent sessions, enabling the student to take part in family vacations, school or other activities.

Channel 9 Telecourse Enrollments Underway

Enrollment is underway in Channel 9's summer telecourses, with four educational series premiering the first week of June on St. Louis public television station KETC-TV.

The courses include tennis instruction, a survey of national parks, the writings of Shakespeare and a "pot pourri" mini-series for the ladies. Enrollment in Channel 9 telecourses is open to all Channel 9 members, persons who support the station with an annual tax-deductible contribution of $15 (personal) or $25 (family).

More than 14,000 Missouri and Illinois television viewers are Channel 9 members, with the opportunity to use the educational courses and materials available to them through their membership.

Army Engineers Take Bids for Tunnel Repairs

Bids have been opened in the District Office, U. S. Army Engineer District, St. Louis, for the cleaning and repair of intake tunnels of the East St. Louis and Interurban Water Co. Emergency repair funds for the work were released by the Chief of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers under Public Law No. 81-89.

The apparent low bid of $186,984 was submitted by the Judy Company, Inc., of Kansas City, Mo.

The work consists of dewatering, cleaning tunnels of silt, sediment and other materials, sealing cracks in tunnel structures, grouting voids beneath the tunnels, filling a portion of the tunnels with lightweight concrete, and installing pressure equalizing piping when required.

The work is expected to be completed within 90 days after the receipt of written notice to proceed. The work site is located on the east bank of the Mississippi River about three-fourths of a mile upstream from Eads Bridge.

Colonel Guy Jester, District Engineer, said that the four tunnels involved were built by the water company in 1912 to carry piped water from the river under the riverbank fill into the utilities system.

Two of the tunnels were cleaned, inspected and repaired by the East Side Levee and Sanitary District in 1970. The remaining tunnels were not cleaned, inspected or repaired due to lack of funds. Inasmuch as the first two tunnels inspected were found to be in poor condition, it is anticipated that the last two will be in similar condition.

Col. Jester said plans and specifications for work on the remaining two tunnels call for work to be accomplished with the Mississippi River stages as high as 15 feet on the St. Louis gauge. This will permit the work to be accomplished during the high water season.

Mr., Mrs. Joseph Kula Mark 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Kula, 1620 Seventh St., Madison, who were married on May 23, 1922, at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Madison, renewed their wedding vows during a Mass at the church.

Officiating at the service were the Rev. Engelbert Bieleke, OFM, Rev. Sylvester Mueck, OFM, and Rev. Conrad Moeck, OFM.

After the ceremony a reception was held at Polish Hall, 832 Greenwood St., Madison, for about 500 friends and relatives.

Mr. Kula and his wife, the former Veronica Rozyclo, have resided in Madison since their marriage. He was employed at American Car & Foundry in St. Louis for 47 years as a general foreman prior to retirement in 1967.

The honored couple has two children, Alfred Kula of Edwardsville and Mrs. Geraldine Friend of Madison; five grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Through the efforts of the Rev. Bieleke, Mr. and Mrs. Kula received the Pope's blessing on their anniversary.

Parents Group Holds Potluck

The Southwest Regional Parents Group for the Hearing Impaired held the first meeting of the year with a potluck dinner at Lake School.

Entertainment was provided by the Kwabadi Indian dance group from Collinsville which performed in traditional costume. Children in the audience were asked to join the dancers in the finale.

During a business session plans for the Illinois Parents of Hearing Impaired "state day" were outlined with tentative arrangements for a meeting in October.

Also discussed was the need to carpet three classrooms in the Belleville school. The group may purchase the carpeting, it was decided.

Guests at the meeting included Jim Sloan, supervisor of the Southwest Region and his family, several teachers and their families and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hudson and family.

The next meeting is planned for September to coincide with the opening of the fall school term.

GC COUPLE RETURNS FROM HAWAIIAN TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. George (Paul) Kula, 2819 Iowa St., have returned from a seven-day vacation in the Hawaiian Islands. The trip was a sales award earned by Mrs. Gordon from the Playhouse Toy Co. The couple visited Honolulu and Waikiki.

While the Gordons were in Hawaii, their son, George Michael, 5, visited Disney World in Florida with his grandfather, Joe Williams, and his great-grandmother, Mrs. Exie Williams, of Dover, Tenn.

High Praise Due All Who Helped Develop

City-Township Sanitary Sewer Agreement

High praise is due city officials of Granite City and the township supervisors of Venice, Granite City, Nameoki and Chouteau for their perseverance in working out a mutually beneficial agreement on sanitary sewer collector and interceptor line installations by the four townships and a connection between those lines and the city sewage treatment plant, which is to be upgraded from primary to secondary treatment to meet new state-federal standards.

Although specific fees by township sewer users have not yet been determined, agreement has been reached on a schedule of basic rates under which the township will reimburse the city for the privilege of linking the new sewers to the conveniently-located treatment plant.

Aside from savings to the public estimated at more than $4 million, the plan that has been worked out appears to be the quickest way of extending sewer service to outlying areas, such as Pontoon Beach and Mitchell.

It involves installation routes which cause little or no disruption to existing streets and facilities. And it has been designed in a way to encourage development along the western, as well as northern and eastern, edges of the Quad-Cities, including the important port and industrial areas.

Although there are many advantages to the program which has been worked out, it was not easy to achieve for a variety of valid reasons.

This fact emphasizes the statesmanlike path followed by the legislative and executive branches of the Granite City municipal government, the elected township leaders and also members of the Madison County Board, formal sponsor of the program. There also were helpful efforts by the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Council, East-West Gateway Coordinating Council and the state and federal governments.

Biggest gainer will be the public, which will see needed service provided in the most orderly, economical and prompt manner possible.

Message of Primaries—Stop Using Workers

As Handy Group to Blame for All Problems

Comment by Frank McGee on the Today network television program—Among a great many other things that voters in the primaries so far have done is to rather resoundingly reject a good many of the views and attitudes that have been reflected in the national media, including television.

So many of the things that have been given attention in the national press, again including television, are being rejected by voters. Changes they have been told, either directly or indirectly, that they must make in their attitudes—changes they've been told they must effect in the American society—they're not prepared to make.

A good many Americans feel they have been ignored for too long. They feel that institutions, while not responding, perhaps as well as they should to the needs of minority groups, are not responding to their needs, either. They are weary with being told that so many of the social evils are attributable to them.

It's become fashionable in recent years to sneer at the middle class and to say that all of the country's ills, or many of them, are attributable to them.

Yet they look at themselves and see that they are, after all, those who work and pay taxes. They send their children to school; they are patriotic.

They may agree that the war is wrong, or they may not. But it is their sons, after all, who are fighting and dying there.

They don't feel that their point of view, their sense of moral values, their sense of the rightness and wrongness of government directions, are being taken into account.

They are using the primaries to, among other things, bring this forcefully to our attention.

Restore the Road Funds Diverted from Area

A strong case can be made for legislative and executive approval of the bill to restore $10 1/2 million in highway construction funds to Madison and St. Clair Counties.

The unique 1968-70 road building "freeze" imposed on this region pointlessly delayed badly needed highway improvements.

Ordered ostensibly due to the level of construction costs and the degree of minority employment, the financial cutoff aggravated traffic hazards and escalated highway injuries and property damage.

The allegation by Sen. William Harris (R, Pontiac) of "indirect porkbarreling" seems inappropriate. What is sought is not a gift but a replacement of the money originally intended for the two counties and diverted to other portions of Illinois.

As was brought out in a federal suit over the freeze, the U. S. relayed federal funds for Madison and St. Clair Counties road projects to Illinois. It is now up to the state to make up for the diversion and, legislation currently before the General Assembly would accomplish that.

Illinois Transportation Department statistics being used in opposition to the proposal appear to be both inaccurate and misleading. Senator Sam Vadalabene (D, Edwardsville) has pointed out.

Funds were diverted, as the population of this region is well aware, and they ought to be restored.

Sad News on Damage to the Pieta Statue

The almost irreparable damage to Michelangelo's priceless Pieta statue, depicting Mary holding the crucified Jesus in her arms, saddened Quad-Cityans of all faiths. A man wielding a 12-pound sledgehammer at St. Peter's Basilica in the Vatican badly disfigured the face and broke the left arm.

We had an opportunity to view the famed statue, nearly five centuries old, when it was shown behind shattered-proof glass at the New York World's Fair in 1964. Since then, its protection was being provided at St. Peter's but had not yet been completed.

The beautiful artwork was an inspiration to the countless millions who have viewed it, and everything feasible should be done to try to restore it.

Madison and Niedringhaus Avenues, Iowa and 21st Streets, is a real breakthrough—the provision of a non-profit health center in the heart of the Quad-Cities that is comparable to hospitals anywhere—no far better than most.

St. Elizabeth's designation as a regional trauma center was no accident, no borderline ruling.

It sparkles not only with cleanliness but with zeal for achievement, with dedication to a high and worthy calling.

The net result is infinitely greater than the sum of its many parts, thanks to the coordination of staff and technology and the positive attitude prevailing at all levels.

These beliefs are voiced because the facts prompting them should be more generally known and recognized.

It is important to say them because of the qualification referred to earlier; the new wing is a success in nearly every way, but not in every way.

The lack which has become apparent is the lack of an adequate number of patient beds.

The shortage, the birthrate decline, hospitalization benefit trends, economic conditions and probably additional factors.

The economy of this area is showing signs of coming up and additional new housing appears to be opening the door to further population growth, although it is not yet visible in school enrollment.

The exceptional new wing—really a new hospital in itself rather than an addition of new rooms—is sure to help attract physicians and surgeons.

So, there is hope for the future. But the transportation problem could be more difficult than expected, particularly if a proposed 1969 hospital is established.

(St. Elizabeth Hospital realizes that residents to be served a closer hospital is desirable, but the present driving time of 20 minutes or less is said to be comparable to that in most areas of St. Louis and the U.S.

(The local hospital further believes that a new hospital could inadvertently build false hopes; the economics might prevent the range of equipment and services now visualized, while simultaneously eroding the Quad-City hospital financial structure. Advocates of a new hospital take exception to such conclusions.)

Aside from this aspect, it is provable that, despite economic measures and the latest industrial engineering know-how, St. Elizabeth's costs have climbed since construction of the new wing, due to debt retirement and the larger structure.

It also is true that budget projections require an expanded hospital patient load, while actual usage has decreased instead of rising.

As a consequence, St. Elizabeth's financial position encourages more patronage, when hospital care is needed.

Judging by what I have observed, as a visitor and as a patient, it is likely that consideration when one is planning a hospital stay.

McGovern Ideas Hard for Some Democrats to Support

Copy News Service

As the critical and final primary elections approach, it is clear that the Republican nominees will be President Nixon and Spiro Agnew, on the basis of resounding support of the voters.

It also is clear that under certain circumstances almost anybody in the ranks of the party's responsible leadership could be the Democratic nominee. Senators Humphrey and McGovern may argue over who has a plurality.

It also is true that Senator Muskie or Senator Kennedy could emerge wearing the party's crown when "the last hurrah" sounds at Miami in July.

The most critical factor in the Democratic equation, at this moment, is Senator McGovern.

Until recently he has been an underdog in an image which has made it possible for him to address major issues in generalized terms.

He is an underdog no longer and now must face up to the criticism of his fellow candidates in more specific terms.

That criticism is expressed by Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, himself once a contender for the Democratic nomination for president, who declares that McGovern is trying to "radicalize the Democratic party."

Webster defines a radical as a person "associated with views, practices and policies of extreme change." The description fits McGovern to a T, many believe.

Fellow Democratic Sen. Henry Jackson, also a candidate for this party's nomination for president, characterizes McGovern as "the spokesman for the most dangerous and destructive currents in American politics."

If elected president, McGovern would declare an amnesty for draft dodgers as soon as the last American serviceman left Vietnam.

The man would add $43.1 billion to the income tax load of the moderately well-to-do and affluent, and reduce tax loads of those less affluent.

He would institute a guaranteed annual income for all Americans and ease the penalties for use of marijuana.

As president, McGovern also would strip $2 billion from the defense budget at a critical time of world tensions.

He has advocated the mothballing of more than half of the 15 aircraft carriers, and to strategic missile modernization and no more anti-ballistic missiles programs.

His would be a program of shifting emphasis from private initiative and enterprise to federal supervision.

A popular magazine has said that McGovern's philosophy is reminiscent of the days when Huey Long promised to "make every man a king."

All of this adds up to a dilemma of first magnitude for Democrats faced with the decision of whether these philosophies really represent the convictions of their rank and file members.

Wiretaps Rising, Casual Attitude Can Chip Away Freedom of Speech

By LT. GOV. PAUL SIMON

An item in the New York Times related something which is significant: that legal wiretaps on telephones increased 37% last year.

My guess is that this increase in recent years has been fairly constant, with the political party of the administration or judge involved having little to do with it.

There are many measures of progress in our country: industrial growth, employment, and other things which test economic standards.

Measuring whether our basic freedoms are slipping or being adequately protected is much more difficult, and this report suggests some fundamental erosion of freedom of speech is taking place.

Illegal wiretaps probably have grown even more rapidly than those legally authorized.

It is not at all uncommon today to call a public official or a person who has important responsibilities and ask an opinion on something—assuring him that his opinion will be kept confidential—and the reply comes back "I'd be happy to tell you, but I don't think I should do it on the telephone."

I am told that it is not difficult to get private detective agencies to tap phones.

I know of one public official who has his phone checked constantly for eavesdropping via the tube. I assume there may be many more who feel under the necessity to do that.

Does this suggest these officials are doing something which is illegal? Not at all.

Anyone in a major position of responsibility frequently is asked his opinion about people under consideration for promotion, for example. He ought to be able to speak frankly without fear of having that recorded.

You cannot have your home invaded without a search warrant. You should also not be subject to having your conversation invaded except under the most extreme type of circumstances.

You should be able to get on the phone and denounce the president, the governor, the lieutenant governor and anyone else without fear of having it recorded, without fear of reprisals.

The story in the New York Times told of wiretaps on telephone conversations authorized by the courts.

In the ninth paragraph of the story was a significant statement: "Some of the judges and the police have become casual about authorizing wiretaps."

Chipping away at our freedom of speech is not something which should become casual about. Until there are convictions for illegal wiretapping, and until the statistics reverse themselves on legal wiretapping, we have reason for concern.

State Status -- Underdog Role May Aid Ogilvie

By KEN WATSON

Copy News Service

Springfield—Every cloud has a silver lining.

That old saying certainly applies to the world of politics. Some Illinois Republicans are encouraged by the response from the grassroots to recent polls which show Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie trailing far behind his Democratic challenger Daniel Walker.

It had been feared at high GOP levels in Springfield that publication of the polls would cast an even deeper pall of defeatism over the Ogilvie supporters and, perhaps, sink the entire Illinois Republican cause into a bog of apathy from which it might never emerge. But, judging from the response to date, just the opposite has happened.

Loyal Republicans angered at the polls appear to be rallying behind the governor with enthusiasm unmatched since the peak of the successful 1968 campaign.

Some have taken pen in hand to write to newspapers and others questioning the poll findings and asserting that it does not tell the real story in their areas. There has been a flurry of inquiries for Ogilvie bumper stickers and other campaign materials.

For the first time, there are some faint indications that Ogilvie may be acquiring the underdog role that most Statehouse politicians believe necessary if he is to make a comeback and win a second term.

Even among Capitol Republicans, it is acknowledged that much of the new interest in Ogilvie stems from an early disillusionment with Walker.

Although the Ogilvie personality can never be described as a warm one, Walker's is proving to many to be an irritating one. Even the recognized Walker proficiency on television may be alienating some voters.

It is still only the most vague speculation, but there are some who feel that not only in Illinois but nationwide, Ogilvie may be setting in against candidates who concentrate only on achieving a glamorous presentation via the tube.

This has already proven to be a highly unpredictable campaign year, and by November it is possible that voters may be rejecting glamour for substance.

Meanwhile, in the opinion of some, Walker continues to fritter away much of the popularity which he has with his upset win over Lt. Gov. Paul Simon in the primary.

Not only are many Democrats admitting some twinges of conscience for turning their backs on Simon, but they are taking a second look at Walker. So are some of the estimated 300,000 Republicans who crossed over to vote for him in the primary.

Walker's budget criticism, in which he backed down when challenged to show where he would make a $500 million cut in Ogilvie's proposals, has not helped him.

Objective Republican strategists concede that Ogilvie is far behind and would lose if the election were held today.

But most do not regard his cause as hopeless and some respected Democrats like State Auditor Michael J. Hoeft are publicly warning their party not to take the governor's race for granted.

Illinois Republicans appear ready to fight and that, at this early stage in the campaign, could be a big plus.

The latest trend, therefore, proved to be the best. The big advance in patient care was no longer theoretical but actual, and it was evident that the new wing was a success in nearly every way.

Sparkling Hospital Wing Spacious Scene of Skilled Health Services

A hospital is not just masonry and equipment but a living, breathing entity.

It is a collective effort to maintain and restore health through the hands and minds and hearts of hundreds of skilled people performing diverse tasks on a 24-hour-a-day, 365-days-a-year basis.

This fact was brought home to me forcefully several days ago when I had a new opportunity to visit and view St. Elizabeth Hospital. The administrators were hosts for a tour and a "let's look at the financial books" session.

I was familiar with the institution and its new Doctors' Wing, having toured it during the construction and again on the day of the dedication and public open house.

But even as recently as the time of the open house, despite the throngs of citizens and the informative price tags on assorted rooms and departments, it was difficult to grasp the full implications of the $14 million modernization-expansion program.

The facilities obviously were functional and up-to-the-minute, efficient and first-class.

What they lacked was patients, a deficiency partly remedied the next day and more fully solved with each passing week as more and more sections completed their moves from old to new locations.

SCOUTS PLANT FLOWERS AT HOMES OF SHUT-INS

Community interest and public awareness are two of the main functions of the Girl Scouts of America and Junior Troop 462, led by Mrs. Skippy Kidman, 8 Nightingale Lane, kept these aims in mind during the holiday weekend, when the girls planted flowers at the homes of six shut-ins at Kirkpatrick Homes and participated in the DAV "parade of flags" and memorial services.

The scouts planted flowers at the homes of Mesdames Lloyd Davis, Lena Swartz, Mary Alwell, Eva Jacobs, Ginny Ross and Tina White, preceded by a ninth birthday celebration for a scout, Jolene Stratton.

Prior to the parade of flags, the troop assembled for a flag ceremony at the home of Mrs. Irene Hoelter, 3021 Ramona Drive. Mrs. Hoelter is commander of the DAV Auxiliary, which sponsors the troop. Lead Poisoning Topic Of June 8 Seminar

Techniques for the removal of lead from the environments of children are among topics to be discussed at a lead poisoning seminar on June 8, in East St. Louis, according to Dr. Franklin D. Yoder, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health. The half-day seminar will be at the State Community College from 1 to 4 p.m.

Other topics scheduled for discussion include the clinical evaluation of patients with high blood lead levels, methods of treatment and laboratory procedures.

The seminar is sponsored jointly by the Illinois Department of Public Health, the Metro-East Health Services Council, the East Side Health District, the St. Clair County Medical Society and the East St. Louis Model Cities Program.

"Last summer we conducted a lead poisoning survey in a number of communities with the assistance of local health departments, physicians and other interested parties," Yoder said. He continued:

"This was the first lead screening program in Illinois outside of Chicago and it dramatically demonstrated that we have a significant lead poisoning problem in many downstate communities."

"Our program resulted in the testing of more than 6,000 downstate children between the ages of one and six. About 20% of the children tested had elevated blood lead levels."

Oliver M. Holmes, PEP director, said it is designed to provide work experience and economic assistance to all who wish to participate.

The student, according to Holmes, combines work and study during a five-year period to obtain a degree. The freshman year consists of four quarters of full-time study. The four following years consist of six-month periods of alternate work and study.

State to Select 5 Sites For New Penal Facilities

Copley News Service

Springfield—The early part of this month has been set as a target date for selecting the regions in which five to seven new minimum security penal facilities for adult males are to be built in Illinois at an estimated cost of $16 million.

Meanwhile, site selections on a related but different project, a $6 million diagnostic and reception facility originally planned for Joliet, is under reconsideration, and probably will be built in the Joliet area, on state owned property, but closer to Chicago.

Arthur Huffman, state criminologist, said he sees no reason why the public hearing board of the department of corrections, after conducting hearings throughout the state since early May, should not be able to determine the regions in which the new minimum security facilities should be built by the early part of June.

According to a schedule worked out by Huffman, the group should be able to select the actual sites between June 26 and no later than Sept. 8, with appointment by the associate architect and engineers to be made by the state architect's office between Aug. 1 and Sept. 15.

If the selections, appointments and fundings go according to his timetable, actual construction would be underway by next January.

Huffman stressed, however, that some aspects of the project are still subject to control by the department of corrections. Both the department of general services and the state architect would be involved he said, and delay by either or both of those offices could throw the rest of the timetable off.

In addition, if the Capital Development Bond Act should fail to pass, funding would not be available for the projects, he said.

The Joliet construction project, for which funding already has been approved, tentatively was planned for construction in Joliet. However, Huffman said, another site which he declined to identify further, but which would be on land already owned by the state, is now being investigated by the firm of Will and Perkins, which has the contract on the structure, to be financed by $3 million in general revenue bonds and $3 million from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

The new site still will be in the Joliet area, Huffman said, but will be closer to west side medical facilities, to Governor's State Hospital and to other health resources and nearer to a joint program operated at Tinley Park by the departments of corrections, children and family services and mental health, for patients whose needs fall somewhere between all of these state agencies, but not squarely into any of them.

The proposed new $16 million in minimum security facilities are part of a program announced some time ago by Corrections Director Peter F. Benninger, which would reduce populations at overcrowded state penal facilities by scattering many inmates in minimum security facilities located not only closer to their home communities but in better proximity to mental and physical health facilities, educational resources and a potential job market.

It has been estimated that only 10% of the prison population in Illinois require maximum security facilities, while 90% reportedly could be adequately restrained and retained in minimum security institutions. Presently, every prison in Illinois is a maximum security facility except a brand new one at Vienna, not yet at full operation.

GOP Convention Set in Rockford

The 1972 Illinois Republican State Convention will convene at noon on June 17 at the Rock Valley Field House in Rockford, Ill.

Housing for the convention is being handled by the Springfield office of the State Central Committee, with which reservations must be made not later than June 3.

Preliminary committee sessions will get under way Friday, June 16, with sessions scheduled at 11 a.m. by the delegate and alternate delegates committee, university trustees committee, presidential electors committee and the resolutions and platform committee.

A reception for all delegates, alternates and Republican guests is scheduled from 8 p.m. to midnight on Friday.

Meetings of committees on arrangements, credentials, permanent organizations and rules and procedures are to be beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 17, prior to the convention opening.

Summer School Opens Tomorrow in Madison

The Madison School District will open its summer school program tomorrow for students wishing to take improvement or enrichment courses.

Students may register tomorrow if they have not already done so. Enrollment centers will be at Harris, Blair, Louis Baer, Dunbar and Senior High Schools.

The School District also plans to operate a recreation program in conjunction with the summer school program from 9 a.m. to noon, beginning tomorrow. Activities will include arts and crafts, sports and instrumental music.

Arts and crafts for 6 to 14-year-old children will be held at Dunbar and Madison Recreation Center, and sports activities for 9 to 14-year-old youngsters will be held at Dunbar and Louis Baer.

Party Honoring Howlett Tomorrow in Madison

Michael J. Howlett, state auditor of public accounts and Democratic candidate for secretary of state, will be the guest of honor at an appreciation party at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Croation Hall, 1002 Madison Ave., Madison.

Sam Vardalabene (D-Edwardsville) is chairman of the event. Several other state and area political officials are expected to attend. Tickets, costing $15 each, will be available at the door.

Crosby Platter Stirs Nostalgic Sound Waves

By JUDY HUGG
Copley News Service

Between late 1925 and December, 1926, that musical potentate Paul Whiteman was being badgered by his good pal Jimmie Gillespie to hire an unknown piano singing team just down from Spokane, Wash., ready to set the world on fire.

Alton Rinker was the piano player. The brash young kid with the voice was Harry Lillis Crosby, known to his buddies as Bing.

Whiteman decided to try the boys out. But when the band hit New York, theater owners thought the young Crosby was so bad that their contracts with Whiteman included a clause forbidding Bing from singing a solo on stage. Well, folks, just look where Bing is today. And nobody complains about his voice.

Some of Crosby's best efforts come across on the RCA Vintage Series album "Wrap Your Troubles in Dreams." The album—a collection of 16 original recordings, some dating back to 1930—provides a rare insight into one of the world's favorite performers.

Nostalgic Melodies

Here you'll find such nostalgic melodies as "Ol Man River," "I'm Afraid Of You," "One More Time" and "Thanks To You."

Bing Crosby rose up out of the band-singer class with "The Crooner" vogue to become an indelible legend in the world of entertainment. If you want to savor some of the best Bing on wax, don't pass up "Wrap Your Troubles in Dreams."

However, it's a long road from Paul Whiteman Rhythm Boys singing "Wistful and Blue," to "White Christmas" to all the "read" songs which brings us to "Bing 'n Bessie," a new release of Daybreak Records.

Johnny Mercer notes on the album, "Here with Count Basie, Der Bingle rides again and I'm sure it is a proud and happy moment for these two musical giants, behemoths of the blues, rajahs of rock, Sultans of Soul and groovy performers."

This may be true, for the Bessie Kansas City sound is as always, swinging, rich and forceful, but, unfortunately Crosby comes through very thin on takes such as "Sunrise Sunset," "All His Children" and "Little Green Apples." His "crooning" style simply doesn't do justice or fit these tunes.

One of his shining moments on the album comes with the cut of "Sugar, Don't You Know." Sorry, Bing, but you just can't win 'em all.

On The Classical Side: Turn up your stereo and run for cover. Here comes E. Power Biggs with "Music for Organ, Brass and Percussion." This is the big sound—courtesy of the Columbia Brass and Percussion Ensemble, conducted by Maurice Peress.

The recording (Columbia M-31193) is indeed overpowering. The thunderclaps begin with Eugene Gigout's popular organ work, "Grand Chorus in Dialogue." Biggs' organ sounds are so deep and thunderous at times that they might be coming from the basement of St. George's Church, where this recording was made. But the trumpets, trombones and tubas also manage to be heard.

Marcel Dupre's "Heroic Poem" also is performed on this record. The music was written to commemorate the restoration of the Cathedral at Verdun in 1937, and the rededication of its organ. There also are two compositions by German romantic Sigfrid Karg-Elert, and Widor's "Lord, Save Thy People." This is the big sound—courtesy of the Columbia Brass and Percussion Ensemble, conducted by Maurice Peress.

Brazilian Pianist
Pianist Manfredo Fest is a Brazilian, and no one will doubt the Latin influence after hearing his first American album, "After Hours" on Daybreak Records (DR2012). The 36-year-old blind pianist is an excellent stylist but this LP suffers from a rhythmic sameness. Even the "Theme From Love Story" gets the Latin treatment, which listeners may find distracting.

Fest, who now makes his home in Minneapolis, Minn., was an admirer of George Shearing as a teen-ager and the influence of the American on his style is obvious. So, too, is his early schooling in Bach; Fest adds baroque flour-ishes to his interpretations now and then. Jeannie C. Riley fans will find her new MGM album "Give Myself A Party" on a par with her 1969 blockbuster "Harper Valley P.T.A.," which sold six million copies.

"All I ever wanted to do was sing, you know, folk-country, sarcastic songs," Jeannie once said. She compares her style with Elvis Presley saying: "Remember when Elvis came out and they couldn't decide if his style was country or rock or whatever? I think my style is sort of similar—sort of earthy." Her new album starts with the sprightly title tune and bounces through "Me and Bobby McGee" and "Houston Blues." It's a fine LP with a variety of country sounds.

Gus Lignoul Retires at GC Steel After 53 Years

Over a half-century of continuous employment with Granite City Steel Co. has ended for Gus "Bud" Lignoul upon his retirement from his job after 53 years of service. A Granite Cityan, Lignoul was a plant policeman for the past 21 years.

He and his wife, Mary, live at 2911 Warren, Granite City. They have a son, a daughter and five grandchildren. Lignoul started with GCS in April 1919 in the old Tin Mills on a "temporary" basis.

Company records show Lignoul to be the first man to complete more than 50 years of service with Granite City Steel since the 1963 retirement of Henry Kahle, also a plant policeman, who logged 57 years.

Lignoul was one of 12 GCS men to announce retirements within the past month. Of the 12, six live in Granite City. The other five are Edgar "Bud" Bledsoe, Joe Colp, Les Knufinke, Ed Bierman and Paul Beasley.

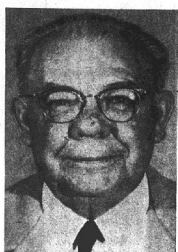

Bledsoe, 2557 Center St., retired as plant policeman after 20 years with the company—all of it on the police force. He and his wife, Edith, plan to travel and eventually move to Herrin, Ill.

Knufinke, 2338 Lynch Ave., retired as production control clerk after 47 years with Granite City Steel. He started in April 1925 in the Tin Mills and in later years served as chief clerk of two different departments. He and his wife, Louise, also plan to travel.

Bierman and his wife, Minnie, live at 2112 Lee St., but will soon move to a rural home near Tamaroa, Ill. He retired from the reclamation unit of the Cold Rolled Finishing department and served 17 years with the company.

Beasley, a machine shop millwright, retired after more than 24 years of continuous service. He lives at 2306 Elm St. Retirees from outside the Granite City area included Art Schoenebeck, Belleville; Bob Elson, Brighton; Joe Dean, St. Louis; Max Bernstein, University City, Mo.; Dennis Akers, Beckemeier, and James Delashmit, Caseyville.

37 Years Service
Schoenebeck is retiring as engineering department construction engineer after more than 37 years service. He spent

Roadside Rest Stops in State Being Developed

By JOAN MURARO
Copley News Service

Springfield — So far, four pairs of roadside rest stops have been completed in Illinois, in a program scheduled to have 26 pairs and four single stops in use or under contract by 1975.

Tom Masrich, of the roadside development division of the State Transportation Department, said another two pairs are to be put into use soon. One of these, on Interstate 80 in Bureau County, is expected to be in service by July 4, and the other, on Interstate 57 in Union County, will be put into service after that.

Another pair, Masrich said, is under construction between Peoria and Bloomington while "many others" are already under design contracts.

While each of the roadside sites provides the same basic services—rest rooms, picnic facilities, water and provisions for trash disposal as well as information about the region and other scenic attractions within easy driving distance—they are contracted for on an individual basis, so that each can be designed to conform best to its own particular locale.

Federal grants are providing funds to individual states to construct the rest stop facilities. Masrich said it was his understanding that a funding would not be available after 1975 for facilities which were not already under construction or under contract.
